New Swimming Pool Opens Up Friday, Aug. 12

Committee Has Arranged For A Night's Program

The official opening of Redcliff Community Swimming Pool will take place on Friday, August 12th in the evening at 6:30.

The entertainment committee in charge will put on a monster water gala and carnival. There will be all kinds of competitions, dividing events and races for all ages for which good prizes are offered. A Water polo match will also be played and an expert fancy diving will perform.

The carnival will consist of big, coco nut, football, card, board and Big Six. Refreshment booths for hot dogs, soft drinks and ice cream will also be provided for.

The Swimming Pool and the Grounds will be electrically illuminated. After the carnival a big dance with a good orchestra will be held in the Cliff Hall from 10 o'clock to 2 o'clock.

Tickets at 25 cents are now being sold on a guessing contest whereby the person guessing closest to the exact time it takes to fill the new Swimming Pool with water will receive $100.00.

Tickets for the benefit of Swimming Pool equipment are also being sold. Those holding the lucky numbers drawn at the Swimming Pool dance at 12 o'clock midnight will receive respectively $15.00, $10.00 and $5.00 for first, second and third prize.

A gala evening is anticipated. All the new pool needs now is a big crowd of enthusiastic folk to put it over to a good start.

The new pool will benefit every family in town either directly or indirectly so it would seem to be the duty of every citizen both young and old to support this very worthy enterprise wholeheartedly and make this a real community affair indeed.

Mr. Geo. Thompson is leaving today for an extended week's trip through the U.A. and B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McClary and children accompanied by Miss Gene Mallard are leaving today for a short holiday in Loughs, where they will spend a short holiday with Mrs. McClary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Reynon and with Miss Mallard's aunt Mrs. Chas. Robertson.

Request to Save the Water For New Pool

Conserve Garden Water Until Pool is Filled

Town Council requests that all citizens refrain from using water on their gardens while the new pool is being filled.

Citizens now know that it takes much more water to fill up the new pool and when water is used on gardens it would take much more time to fill up the pool. As there is not a much needed for water in gardens now this should be remembered.

Nan's Grandmother Now 100 Years Old

E. G. Martin Here Gets Her News From Old English House

Mrs. Wm. Martin, who is the mother of Mr. E. Martin, of Manxville and grandmother of Mr. E. G. Martin of our town, is celebrating her birthday a few months ago when she was 100 years old. Mrs. Martin is still living in her old home in Manxville, Kent County in the Old Country.

Although she has been in her bed for the past ten years she is a great reader of old books and she reads them without glasses. Earnest's grand father is also still living and is now 95 years old. He is greatly interested and proud of his grand parents as they both write letters to relatives here frequently.

Earnest's many friends here will be interested in his grand parents and hope they are enjoy- ing life.

Our Softball Girls Win at Gleichen

Locals Play Errorless Game Scores—6-0 and 12-3

Our local Girls' Soft Ball team played a double header at Gleichen on Wednesday, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening.

Both games resulted in victory for the Redcliff team. In the afternoon the score was 6-0 and in the evening 12-3.

The teams were fairly well matched with Redcliff having a slight edge over the other team as the scores would indicate.

In the afternoon the game was particularly interesting as our girls played an errorless game throughout. They simply could do nothing wrong.

Both games were poorly attended by spectators, so the girls were not able to pay expenses from collections. But they thoroughly enjoyed the outing, thanks to the kindness of their school manager, Henry VanWert who took the girls to Gleichen in "Reddy's" capacious limousine.

It is to be hoped that the Gleichen girls will pay Redcliff a return visit in the near future.

The local team is to be congratulated. They produce a fine type of ball and deserve the support of Redcliff citizens.

Says Social Credit Is At The Dead End

C. C. Paper Says Anxious to Go Onward

The "Allotment" features a special dispatch from Edmonton, stating that Social Credit in Alberta has reached a "dead end" and that the Alberta government would welcome a program along orthodox lines, leading to repudiation of the public debt to put an end to default, and a refunding of the public debt with that purpose in view.

Mr. C. C. Paper is reported to be likely to go to Montreal and New York shortly to discuss refunding.

A nice shower of rain fell over town last Monday morning and did some good for gardens and wheat crops. A little more would be quite welcome.

Some lads in town had lots of fun recently with making small airplanes and putting them up in the air. They make a nice fly for several minutes and return to the ground.

Meeting Held Monday About The Credit Bank

All Present Were Agreed to Have Bank Here

At a meeting in the Town Hall Monday night the formation of a credit union in Redcliff was proposed. Mr. W. Willis and Mr. H. Dacre, who were familiar with the new Act passed by the Alberta Government, explained the use and significance of these unions.

The Credit union is owned by a group of citizens, usually working men, for the purpose of joining together to use their own credit. The Credit unions accept small deposits and make small loans to its members. It may also invest the savings in any bonds etc. approved by the Provincial director. The profits are shared by the stockholders, who are the depositors in the Union.

There are several thousand of these Baby Banks in Canada and United States now and more are being formed each month. European countries, particularly Germany have used the facilities offered by them for some time.

Those present at the meeting considered it advisable to attempt the formation of such a union in Redcliff, and W. Willis was appointed provisional secretary in order to incorporate the body and collect fees.

As the cost of joining this union is very small and the benefits are unquestioned, it would be well for those interested to get in touch with Mr. Willis at once.

The Review will publish extracts from the Act respecting Credit Unions in an early issue in order to acquaint our readers with this movement.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Mrs. E. Vermilyea, Campbellford, Ont., claims a record as an instructor. She has taught since she was 10 years old, a total of 60 years.

A 12-spot Indian python reported missing from a London house and for which police searched was found asleep behind a wardrobe in the house all the time.

One hundred and thirty convicts from the Kingston penitentiary have been distributed among western Canadian penitentiaries. The Kingston penitentiary was overcrowded.

Miss Ada Lent of Edmonton, Alta., was named president of the British Empire Club at the annual meeting held in International House, New York. Miss Jessie Casselman, Vancouver, was elected secretary.

Dr. Charles R. Dickson, 79, one of the earliest experts of X-ray, who was blinded by exposure to its ultra violet rays in 1914 founded the Canadian Institute for the Blind, died recently in Toronto.

There were 48,000,000 pounds of creosote butter produced in Canada in June, an increase of seven per cent. over June, 1937; 41 per cent. May, 1938. A Dominion bureau of statistics report said.

Prospects at present were for a good year in the packing industry. President J. S. McLean told shareholders at the annual meeting of Canada Packers Limited. Directors were re-elected and reports adopted.

Check On Firearms

Registration Of Revolvers And Pistols Is Made Necessary

Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters issued a statement urging the public to co-operate in checking the new amendment to the criminal code with registration of revolvers and pistols which was taken at the recent session of parliament.

The amendment requires persons possessing revolvers or pistols to register them between March 1 and July 1, 1939, and periodically every five years thereafter. In 1934, when registration of weapons was made compulsory by parliament, no provision was made for a periodical re-registration.

The amendment, the statement said, will have the effect of helping the public to decide whether they really desire to retain as souvenirs or for the sake of protection, pistols and revolvers which may be stolen, and therefore may be a source of danger rather than protection. The law compels the registration of weapons and revolvers, whether held as souvenirs or for any other purpose. In Great Britain, all dangerous weapons of this kind must be registered every three years.

The firearms registration section has proven helpful in the past in the forces throughout the Dominion in identifying firearms found at scenes of crimes or on persons arrested, the statement said.

Number Is Growing

Specialist Advises Six Meals Daily Best Low Food

Science is undermining another ancient creed. The rule about not eating between meals has been questioned before this. One specialist at the Ottawa meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Science now says definitely six meals a day. This means, as our mathematically minded readers will see at once, the 48-meal week, or something more than a meal per hour of work. Perhaps this is as pleasant a way as any of meeting the challenge of the new leisure.

There is one drawback. The specialist at Ottawa says six meals a day, but a total of only two-thirds as much food as one consumes now. But that, too, will be adjusted in time. As science continues to advance with mighty strides, upsetting on its way the science of to-day, we may confidently look forward to a world of to-morrow in which people will be urged to eat eight heavy meals a day.

An Early Mistake

Now that pine trees are being used for making paper, it is not surprising that it was a mistake to cut down the piney on the old homestead to be seen into lumber, but the fact had to be cleared and science hadn't transformed the old pine trees into paper or dress goods in the pioneer days.

Queerest Horse Races

Have Been Run Half Century In Italy Since 1721

One of the world's oldest and queerest horse races, the Palo, was celebrated in a recent week in the municipal square at Sicily, Italy. Medieval paganism dominated the scene as banners and costumes of 600 years ago were mingled in the crowds of townsfolk.

Ten horses were chosen by lot to run for the honor of 10 to 15 towns' prize, or awards. The Palo, or prize, is a huge silk banner.

Races did not prevent the riders from beating one another's horses. The jockeys rode three times around a brick-paved tilted piazza. Horses padded some of the dangerous courses.

Police waited at the finish line to protect the winner from friends and rivals alike. So fierce was rivalry once that inter-city marriages were difficult. Such hysteria has passed but families still separate on Palo Day, each member joining the race when he was born.

The course has been run uninterrupted twice a year since 1721. It dates back to the 14th century, however, and goes out of other script, or traceable to the 13th century.

For Firm Action

Anthony Eden Thinks Britain Should Take A More Vigorous Line

"It is certainly not true to pretend that for this country to take firm action in defence of its own legitimate interests is to endanger peace," Anthony Eden, former secretary of state, in a speech at Stratford, Ontario.

"There must, everywhere be still a readiness to unshrink the usage of war," he said, "but we hear there bark again. The bark has even become an accepted accompaniment of certain forms of diplomacy. In these conditions it is inevitable that there should be a difference of opinion in this country as to the methods which should be pursued."

"Some of us would have preferred to see the world's peace maintained on a more positive line in respect to events in the Mediterranean in the past six months. Whether we were right or wrong is a matter of opinion."

"There is to my mind a preferable course—to make it clear that our policy must be conditioned by certain principles of international conduct which we have always upheld from which we cannot depart."

Study The Planet Venus

Scientists Seek Information About That Unknown World

Astronomers of Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., are observing large white clouds on the planet Venus for clues to what is happening on this unknown world which is the earth's twin in size.

The clouds are completely over Venus, that they change their shapes and shadows from hour to hour, driven by furious fast winds. With the aid of a method of analyzing their reflected light, they have become electrical signals that may reveal the mysterious forces beneath the clouds.

Venus is the next planet toward the sun. At times she comes within 27,000,000 miles of the earth. Her diameter is about 7,700 miles. She has sufficient heat to maintain varied forms of life. Although what happens on her surface is veiled from telescopes, the clouds hold the key to much fascinating information. It is already apparent from studies of these clouds with the spectroscopic that a day on Venus is probably more than two weeks long.

Dr. V. M. Slipher, director of the observatory, says the quality of light reflected from Venus' clouds suggests they are made of dust.

Had No Objection

Chicago Policeman Not Afraid To Take Badge Number 13

For sixteen years the custodian of equipment in Chicago has endeavored to give police badge No. 13 to an officer. "None would accept it," until Marshall Pidgeon, member of the bomb squad, turned in his old and worn number, 6008, and asked for a new one. He was asked if he would take No. 13. "Why not?" he inquired, looking it on his uniform.

More Spots On Sun

The sun, says Astronomer J. M. Leavitt, of the Franklin Institute, is breaking out in a rash again. Leavitt said he counted 200 spots on old sun's face and predicted the number in the year might surpass the number visible during 1937, when a 47-year record was broken.

SEW A COOL BLENDERIZER

By Anne Adams

Here's a best-defying afternoon rock to invite superlatives—and plenty of them! The who has "weighty" problems to solve, will find a glow of inspiration from the pattern of wearing this new Anne Adams stylin' For Pattern 172 is not only simple-as-can-be to make; it is a miracle of understating, satisfying fit, and it is decidedly youthful—just to put it on is to lose a size—perfectly a monotone and an instant design—enhance the fascination of the flared or puff sleeves, the clever pointed yoke that may add a little extra to the bust, the neat pointed skirt. Why not use a silk-crepe, a chiffon or voile? Canadians Should Be Grateful

Have Little To Worry About Compared With Other Countries

Hardly a day passes without some grumbling publicly expressed against present living conditions in Canada, says the Montreal Star. The grumblers are legion, and they are not confined to any one class. Their complaints are as varied as imagination could well make them. Yet business continues to go up, financial conditions improve, and the general well-being of the nation shows betterment.

It might do the grumblers a lot of good if they were to stop grumbling for a day or two and spend the time thus saved in examining living conditions on the other side of the Atlantic. In Europe nobody can cross any frontier without a passport and—in the case of Germany—hardly a pocket in their pockets. People along nearly every European border live in the air. That the morning may bring war and a rain of bombs out of the sky. In the totalitarian States no man or woman may speak his or her candid opinion if it happens to be critical of the government, without fear of imprisonment—or worse. Free speech is dangerous, even in private. No man knows whether his neighbor is not a government spy. No man knows whether there is not a government eye even to his toilet.

Food conditions in most of the countries of Europe, with the exception of France, Switzerland and Scandinavia, are very unsatisfactory, as the masses are concerned. Undernourishment is spreading, with its inevitable concomitant—crime.

And everywhere, feverishly, even in the Old Country, men, women, and children, even the smallest, are being taught how to use gas masks. The ever-present fear that some day war may come, actually, striking a blow in the night, and finding them unprepared, has grasped the nations with a grip that never lessens. From the remotest of the high mountains to the vast subterranean refuges being prepared for the residents of the cities, the fever of precaution has spread.

And over here in Canada, we go freely about our business, shop, work, minds, have no fear of spies, know we are safe against any sudden attack by land or sea or air, move over the border and back at will, are at peace with our neighbors, and enjoy such utter freedom from apprehension that we can find plenty of time to rail against every administration and feel very sorry indeed for ourselves that we are not all living in the life of Italy by the silver sea. Perhaps it will need a remote earthquake shock to shake us out of our foolish complacency—any grumbling moods.

Has Become Lost Art

Craftsmanship Has Given Place To Mass Machine Production

If a man enjoys his work, he is physically and mentally equal to doing it efficiently, there are very good reasons why he should go on working. And these reasons are not forced in the case of men who are single-minded, that their work is their hobby. They are the men of the past, and particularly to-day when the means of recreation and amusement are so readily available in so many different forms, the average man, on imagination, would be happy to retire at 60 if he were able to continue living in modest comfort. The old conception of the dignity of labor has been weakened by the introduction into office and factories of machines that can do as much work in a day as a man can do in three. Work has become in many ways less satisfying to the individual than it used to be. Craftsmanship has decayed, and one cannot expect a workman to take so much pride and pleasure in operating a single unit as his grandfather did in making the whole job himself by hand—Glasgow Herald.

Centenarian Dies

Mrs. Mary Atkinson, who celebrated her 102nd birthday last February, died at her home in Toronto. Born in Scotland, Mrs. Atkinson came to Toronto 67 years ago. Until she was 90 she supported herself by housework, walking to and from her place of employment.

Although Japan is so much occupied with her war in China, she is to establish a great commercial airport at Tokyo. This is to cost $5,000,000, and will be one of the biggest and best-equipped in the Orient.

The word "insect" comes from the Latin insecta, or "cut into." Insects were given the name because of their "cut-in" appearance.

Tokyo is to start broadcasts of television this summer.

Should Develop Northland

Canada Warned Against Leaving It For Orientals To Settle

A warning that Canada must develop and utilize its vast northlands to hold it for the white man, was sounded recently at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Ottawa. Speaking before the gathering of scientists from all over the continent, W. D. Albright, superintendent of a Dominion experimental farm situated in Alberta, indicated his belief that if Canadians neglected the northern fields, there was a possibility that the yellow race would step into the picture.

The question of whether or not the yellow man could stand the climate had been raised. "In answer to that, Albright said in 1890 he saw a Japanese family living at Fort McMurray."

"Only too well may the yellow race adapt itself and surely it will do so," by peaceful penetration, at first, and then by conquest, if the white race neglects nature's motto, "or lose" it and the speaker.

He added that the North American continent, the British Empire, and the civilized world as a whole, has a vital interest in the use of the sympathetic and successful utilization of the dominion's northern mines, forests and plains, even to the islands of the Arctic archipelago.

It is true there has been enterprise shown in opening up the northland, particularly in the quest for oil and minerals, but there is still a large unexplored area of great potential value in Canada.

Peaceful penetration by members of another race might come about so gradually and unobtrusively that Canadians would be unaware of it until it was too late. The government should head Albright's warning and give further encouragement to all efforts put forth by Canadians to develop the hinterland.

Use Ancient Ritual

Semi-Religious Marriage In Germany Seen Old To Outsiders

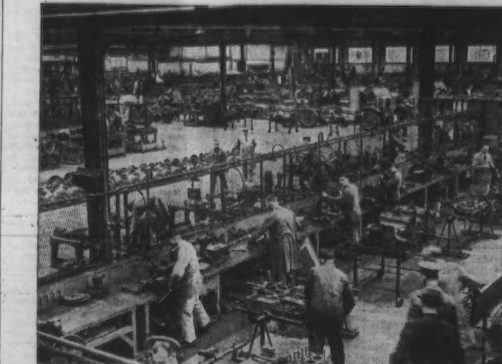

By official order, those German weddings that aren't held in churches are more dignified than they used to be. But many summer weddings still seemed odd affairs to those not versed in Nazi lore.

Ancient Teutonic ritual frequently is used—with many variations. A semi-religious sacrament was introduced not long ago by a Nazi ecclesiastical movement. On a rostrum in a Berlin meeting hall was an arrangement of swastika flags, and a version of the Bible which had been "cleansed of all Jewish taint."

The bridegroom was asked: "Art thou ready to take this woman as thy wife, and live with her in marriage according to German customs?" He solemnly gave the Hitler salute and cried "Jawohl, Hitler!" The bride answered in the same way to the question: "Art thou ready to stand at the side of this man in the hard struggle in behalf of the German Fatherland?" The marriage of one Hitler youth to a Hitler girl was celebrated at the hall in the Party Germanic History Museum, with male shouting, drums, rolled and trumpets blared. Celebrant was the local Nazi commander who presided over the couple man and wife, telling them that "this is not a vale of tears, but a place to fight joyously." Instead of a wedding march, a choir sang a party hymn: "We march towards the sun!"

Sounds More Reasonable

Another Version Of History Story About King Canute

The following letter by L. W. Bromley, Cuzco, Molyneux Road, Ramonville, appeared in the London Observer.

Sir—History tells us that King Canute sat upon his throne on the sea shore and commanded the waves to go back. The village folk of Bosham in Sussex tell a different story.

Their version is that King Canute, who lived at Bosham, lost his little daughter, she fell in the Bosham creek and was drowned, her remains being placed in a small stone coffin and buried beneath what is now the parish church of Bosham. After her loss, King Canute ordered earthworks, since called "Canute's" to be built around the creek, that to prevent the sea from encroaching, and to lessen the possibility of anyone else sharing the fate of his little daughter.

These "chains" may still be seen on the green, situated between the creek and the creek. At Bosham, the "chains" are grass covered indentures, in shape not unlike a horseshoe. This, to me, seems a far more feasible story than that of King Canute "commanding" the waves to recede.

Has Become Big Business

Canadians Spend Two Million Dollars Yearly "Saying Hi With Flowers"

Canadians spend almost two million dollars a year "saying hi with flowers." Evidence that this time-honored custom still prevails is brought to light in a report on the sale of cut flowers and greens grown indoors in Canada during the year ended March 31, 1937. Thirty-two kinds of plants are listed in the report, with sales totaling $1,138,818. Individual items valued at $1,952,128.

Shortness Is Necessary

J. C. Penford, St. Thomas, was warden of Kingston Penitentiary for 15 years and never had a riot. But he used the strap unmercifully and was strict and severe. He submits that when a warden starts to today to prisoners he is lost, a thought which was not taken into the recent Royal Commission report.

Big Bicycle Factories

Largest One In England Orders Motor To Foreign Demand

Although there has been a great increase in the number of automobiles in the United Kingdom during the past few years, the bicycle is still the principal mode of locomotion in the United Kingdom during working men not having attained the standard of living—or perhaps it is indulgence—on this side of going in and from the factory in their own cars.

There are several huge cycle factories in Britain. The biggest is now part of the Raleigh company in Nottingham, which caters especially to foreign countries. British-made bicycles, push-cars, are the finest in the world, and the Raleigh company has no fewer than 10,000 agents in more than 100 countries. Raleigh wheels are found in almost every part of the world. The plant produces over 500,000 machines every year, 50,000 square feet of their 18 acres being taken up with the packing buildings alone. A great network of conveyors, eight miles in length, links up every department, one of these being broken for a distance of 4,500 feet. St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Artic Weather Reports

Broadcasting Side To Be Used In Far North To Send Information Daily

The ice-breaker Nasopik, which sailed recently from Montreal on a regular patrol of the eastern Arctic, carried seven broadcasting sets and early in September the meteorological office in Toronto will begin receiving daily weather reports from the historic northwest passage at the top of Boothia peninsula, 600 miles north of the Arctic circle.

The development of aviation has caused an ever increasing demand for weather reports and the Toronto weather bureau has been pressing for more reports from inside the Arctic circle. The bureau in Washington last winter publicly expressed its thanks for the reports Canada was providing and was eager to have them from the northwest passage.

Most Obsolete Material

Man Holds First Place As Hardest Thing To Improve

"How far that little candle throws his beam! So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Newcomers to an achievement of science that makes the unscientific reel with wonder. A vapor lamp has been developed whose light is so great that only the burning substance beneath the surface of the sun would equal it.

The lamp is a little column of vapor about as thick as the lead in a pencil, and scarcely longer. A man could hold in one hand round off these lamps to light all the airports of the United States.

We've come a long way from candles, but a good deal continues to shine with a brightness made doubly radiant by contrast with the vast and excessive darkness which surrounds it.

Man continues to be the most obsolete material for improvement that genius ever set its hand to—Kitchener Record.

Part Of Education

Mistaken If Not Neglected Can Be A Road Help

The Christian Science Monitor says a certain writer once discussed the matter of compounding a mistake, and giving oneself up to remorse, which he said was the biggest mistake of all.

He said he learned not to allow any mistake to break him down in despair, so that he would be handicapped in carrying on. It reminded him of what Henry Ford once said about mistakes. Ford remarked that he never made a mistake, because any wrong thing he had done was the only way he could learn not to do it.

In other words, then, a mistake can be simply a part of one's education. But, no doubt, making the same mistake over and over again is a real mistake.

The Farmer's Viewpoint

Hard To Run Without Some Experience

A farmer, writing in the Peterborough, Ont. Examiner, objects to magistrates advising vagrants to "go out and work on the farms." "They transients, loafers and drunks appear in court, the lectures from the bench usually ends up with the advice to go out in the country and get an honest job—probably because there is no work for them to do in the city."

But this farmer, while admitting that there is work to do on the farms, is not so sure that the vagrants which can or will be done by drunks and loafers. Men in the country have to get up early in the morning and work late at night. It requires brain work as well as the morning and evening work. Men who have been riding around the country from one city to another, on freight trains, or who have been sitting around for months, or years, waiting for work to come to them, are not the type of men who do the work which is required of them on the farms. A man who has no farming experience and no skill in the country, except possibly during the harvesting season—and the farmer hasn't the time to train him when he knows he won't stick at it anyway.

Then, there is another reason for the farmer's objection. The vagrant man is usually treated as one of the family. He sleeps in the farmer's house, about the same as the farmer's man is usually treated as one of the family. He sleeps in the farmer's house, about the same as the farmer's man is usually treated as one of the family. He sleeps in the farmer's house, about the same as the farmer's man is usually treated as one of the family.

This farmer has presented a strong case. Probably magistrates—and other officials—will stand at the matter in just that way.

Rewards For Good Drivers

Careful Drivers Should Secure Insurance At Lower Rates

In view of the increased rates for automobile insurance necessitated, the companies claim, because of the "bad" driving habits of the "accident" drivers, the question has been raised of giving rewards to good drivers. There is very widespread feeling that the latter should not be made to bear the heavy financial obligations entailed by the careless, reckless and intoxicated classes of drivers.

The insurance companies know those who have had mishaps, and those who have not, and they know their automobiles in a manner contributing to the public safety should get the benefits of lower rates, while those who have had accidents should bear the penalty of extra insurance, deserves consideration. Why should not careful drivers, who, over a period of years, have not been involved in accidents, get a reward for their good driving?

The idea is a worthy one, and it is probable that careful drivers will make themselves more vocal in the future than they have in the past. Let reckless drivers pay the penalty for their own folly—Bradford Express.

During the past four years 50,000 babies have played or slept in the Railway Nursery at Melbourne, Australia, with their mothers waiting outside. For 25 cents the child can be left under supervision in a cot or playroom for a maximum of three hours. In 1934 the Railway Department has operated the nursery only four babies have been deserted by their mothers there.
